2020 BALLARD JAZZ FESTIVAL

“Not all festivals improve with age, but the Ballard Jazz Festival is an exception...[it] has become a distinct and essential event.”

- THE STRANGER

The 18th edition of the Ballard Jazz Festival is quickly coming together for May 27-30, with some exciting changes that will add a new dynamic to an event that is already one of the Northwest's truly unique cultural experiences.

In 2017, the Mainstage Concert made a momentous move into the National Nordic Museum's new, state-of-the-art, $47 million museum and cultural center—doubling our capacity, elevating our audience's experience, and opening up opportunities to present next-level performers, collaborations with Scandinavian artists and wider recognition for Seattle's stellar musicians.

Started in 2003 by Seattle's own Origin Records, the festival sought to highlight the thriving neighborhood of old-town Ballard and Seattle's world class jazz musicians. Quickly growing into a 4-day, internationally recognized festival, the mission hasn't wavered over the years as the label, the neighborhood, and the musicians have all risen in international stature.

The 2020 version only adds to that portfolio as we invite artists from Norway, New York, Los Angeles and beyond to experience jazz, Seattle-style. Through attention from regional jazz radio and features in local print and TV media, the community of Ballard shines from its support of the festival as it benefits from over 2000 attendees arriving for dining, shopping, music and mingling, along with a contingent of out-of-state tourists who have made the Festival a destination event. In addition to all of the auxiliary spending by our attendees, 85% of festival revenue is pumped directly back into the local economy.

Through the support of our business and civic partners, the festival has gone from a single night Jazz Walk with six clubs, to four days of music involving 100+ performers, 15 venues, concerts, and more. That many of our sponsors have been on board since the beginning is extremely gratifying, and together we have created a unique and exciting event in which the community continues to take great pride.

Please take a moment to review the Sponsor Package and consider joining us as a sponsor of the Ballard Jazz Festival.

“... the Ballard Jazz Festival has become one of the most popular and lively jazz events of the year.”

- THE SEATTLE TIMES

Friday, May 29, 2020: Ballard Jazz Walk

Jazz takes over downtown Ballard as we present 20 groups in 12 venues all for a single ticket price. The most recognizable event of the festival brings together all styles of jazz and a New Orleans atmosphere with listeners pouring from club-to-club making this a truly one-of-a-kind event.

Saturday, May 30, 2020: Mainstage Concert

The crown jewel of the festival, we welcome international jazz artists to Ballard at our Mainstage Concert hosted at the National Nordic Museum. Last year the concert was filmed by KNKX 88.5fm and featured performances by saxophone legend Ernie Watts with New Stories and Norwegian guitarist Lage Lund and his trio.

The “coolest neighborhood in the world”

“...what struck me was the level of community involvement and pro-activity for the arts: in corporate sponsorship, national and local artist participation both professionally and academically, citizen attendance; and the positivism of all involved. Although not surprising for Seattle, the Ballard Jazz Festival was simply a really wonderful time ...”

- JAMBASE.COM

In 2003, after five years of running Origin Records, drummers John Bishop and Matt Jorgensen had an idea for a jazz festival in downtown Ballard.

“I always thought this was the coolest neighborhood in the world, and after moving back home to Seattle after 10 years in New York City I knew it was the right time to create something here,” said Jorgensen.

Originally presented as a one night event during the three-week Earshot Jazz Festival, the curating responsibilities were given to Bishop and Jorgensen to create an event that featured musicians from the thriving regional jazz scene. At that first event were members of the Ballard Chamber of Commerce who jumped at the chance to partner with the duo and create their own festival in Ballard. The following November 2003, the Ballard Jazz Festival was born as a one day event, featuring clinics and workshops for dozens of jazz students, performances by area High School jazz bands, a headliner concert with New York artists: The Brian Blade Fellowship, the Vincent Herring

Quartet, and Nancy King, concluding with music into the late night with a Jazz Walk along Ballard Avenue.

Since then, the Festival has expanded to four days with the Jazz Walk growing to 12 venues and jazz artists from New York, Los Angeles, Paris, Detroit, Barcelona, Chicago and more making the journey to Ballard. More importantly to Bishop and Jorgensen, each year they feature over 100 regional jazz artists who are critical to the health and vitality of the Northwest art scene. As Bishop says, “These are musicians who are playing around the region every week and to be able to give them the spotlight is highly rewarding.”

Their efforts have not gone unnoticed. In 2008, Origin Records was presented with HomeStreet Bank’s “Great Neighbor, Great Business” Award for their work in presenting the Ballard Jazz Festival. On the artistic side, Festival concerts have been nominated for four “Golden Ear Awards” for Northwest Concert of the Year, winning in 2005 for the Joe Locke / Geoffrey Keezer Group’s performance. A recording of the concert became a critically acclaimed international release for Origin Records with videos of the event viewed by tens of thousands around the world.

It is a labor of love to plan and execute the festival each year. Bishop, Jorgensen, and assistants Chris Icasiano, Devin Lowe and Peter Daniel, along with a large, dedicated & energized group of volunteers and sponsors, have defied the odds at every step, but in the end, music and community always win out and they look forward to playing their part in keeping Ballard a vital cultural oasis far into the future!

“The Ballard Jazz Festival events combined to create a glowing sense of pride in a community aflutter with first-time festival success stories - a sense of pride not lost on the out-of-towners. The headliners openly praised festival presenters John Bishop and Matt Jorgensen of Origin Records and the Ballard Chamber of Commerce.
